

AROUND the TOWNSHIP

It took the combined efforts of G. Williamson and our wife to get us out of the garden party last week; but once there, we found it entertaining.

Everybody there missed Mrs. Whipple and Mrs. Thane but the Shinn girls, Lizzie and Annie did a good job of running the shindig and managed to see that most everything was sold off.

We came home with two bottles of grape juice (non-intoxicating) and a book on medieval history, which sold for 10 cents. We very near bought a pair of white shoes off the white elephant table but they were too big for the missus and not big enough for us, so we had to let the unrivaled opportunity go by.

Mrs. Thane is very ill. She has been unconscious for some days and her recovery appears doubtful. The anxiety must be a tremendous burden on her daughter, Mrs. Laura Whipple, who, herself, has been ill, and on Mr. Thane. The whole township offers sympathy and prays for Mrs. Thane's recovery.

We think the local people are to be congratulated for their vote in the school bond election.

The action will mean a better Niles and a better township.

One of the first things strangers notice and inquire about in any community is the school and on that depends a great deal of the reputation of the town.

The vote is a vote of confidence in the integrity and ability of the Niles school authorities and should prove heartening to them.

There's a big mystery at Irvington. E. H. Hirsch has started on a month's vacation but neither he nor anyone else knows where.

"I'm not going fishing", said he in announcing the plan. "I am going to start out and let come what may. When I get back, perhaps I'll know where I have been".

We have been asked why we do not publish the names of the winners of the prizes awarded at the Niles Theatre. We would like to do this as readers are always interested in knowing who was the lucky one. But there is a law which says that newspapers which go through the mail must not publish notices of lottery winners. Our paper goes through the mail and as we have not time to serve a jail sentence we are forced to leave out this interesting news.

Devoted Service

Last week we saw Fred Rogers demonstrate the Centerville Fire Department's Inhalator. This device is instantly available, without cost, to any person in our Township. Already several lives have been saved which would probably otherwise have been lost. Suffocation from drowning, electric shock, sunstroke, heart attacks, severe cases of asthma, shock from accident; all of these may respond to this artificial breathing device and pure oxygen supply.

The inhalator was purchased through funds raised by the Centerville Fire Department. The members of the Department, under

The wreck was brought to the Service Garage in Sunol.

First Homes To Rise Soon On New Adobe Acres Tract At Niles

NILES—With the completion of roads this week and construction of the first new home to begin soon, Adobe Acres, recently opened farm home tract adjacent to the California Nursery Company show gardens, is the scene of much activity, George C. Roeding, promoter of this civic development said today.

The first home is to be built for J. A. McDonald and will consist of six rooms. Plans for a typical "California farm home" are being prepared by Frederick H. Reimers, architect. Actual building is to begin within the week.

Further interest in Adobe Acres has been aroused through the support voted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its meeting recently. Planned by Roeding as a demonstration of the possibilities for a moderate priced suburban home on lots of ¼ to ½ acre, Adobe Acres is adjacent to a part of the nursery grounds soon to be turned into a Botanical Park for exhibit and educational purposes. Included in the grounds of Adobe Acres itself are a tennis court and recreation center for adults as well as a spacious playground for children.

Located only one-half mile west of Niles on the nursery highway, Adobe Acres is of especial interest to families with children since it is easy walking distance to the present school.

To provide privacy for every home in the district a general enclosing planting has been made. Other landscaping features include parking strips, accent effects at principle street intersections, and permanent street plantings. These improvements as well as landscaping plans for the home to be built are being provided by the landscaping department of the California Nursery Company.

In commenting on the idea behind the entire project, Mr. Roeding said that Adobe Acres is designed to attract people from all parts of the country because of its desirability as a "liveable" home center and garden development, and as an actual demonstration of how much can be done towards creating an ideal rural home on a small investment.

HELLWIG PLEDGES ACTIVE SERVICES

NILES—George Hellwig, the new Supervisor named last week by the Governor to represent this district as successor to the late Ralph V. Richmond, was a visitor at the Register office this week. Supervisor Hellwig is no stranger in Niles, as he resides in the neighboring community of Alvarado, and he is one of the most prominent citizens of Washington Township.

Mr. Hellwig announced that he would devote his entire attention to the duties of supervisor, realizing that his position is an important one, demanding full-time consideration.

When he is not attending meetings of the Supervisors at the court house, Mr. Hellwig will be traveling throughout his district conferring with his constituents he announced. The only public office he has ever held prior to being named supervisor was as a member of the Alvarado Fire Commission.

Dusterberry Assumes High Rank in Pythian Lodge

CENTERVILLE — Centerville and particularly the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias was greatly honored this week with the election of Frank T. Dusterberry as Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of California. The election took place at the State meeting at Santa Barbara. It is expected that the local lodge will give Mr. Dusterberry an ovation at its regular meeting next Thursday night.

During the convention the new Grand Chancellor was presented with a handsome brief case engraved with the emblems of the lodge, presentation being made by M. P. Mathiesen and E. J. DeLuce who accompanied Mr. Dusterberry south.

The Centerville lodge has about 60 members and is one of the most active organizations in the community. During the past year as grand vice-chancellor, Mr. Dusterberry has paid an official visit to practically every lodge in the State. Leonard Whitbeck is chancellor commander of the local lodge and Mr. Dusterberry is master of the exchequer.

Frank T. Dusterberry was born in Centerville, Feb. 7, 1869. He graduated from the Pacific Business College in San Francisco in 1886. He conducted a general merchandise store under the firm name of Hawes and Dusterberry in Centerville from 1890 to 1906 and retired from this business to organize the Bank of Centerville of which he assumed management. John Mattos was the first president. In 1918 when the bank was taken over by the Bank of America, he became manager, which position he has since held.

He served as postmaster at Centerville from 1893 to 1898. He was purchasing the license tags.

NEWARK DEATH HIT RUN CASE

NEWARK—That Charles J. O'Keefe, draughtsman at the California Chemical Plant at Newark, whose nude and battered body was found on the highway between Centerville and Newark last week was the victim of a hit-run driver was the verdict of a coroner's jury which heard the inquest conducted by Coroner Grant D. Miller at Hayward last Thursday.

It is thought that the accident resulted from heavy drinking on the part of O'Keefe and that he ran from his room at Butler's Hotel, nude and suffering an hallucination that some one was trying to kill him. He either fell exhausted on the highway and was run over or was hit by a car as he ran down the highway calling for help. Funeral services were held in San Francisco following an autopsy at the Chapel of the Palms at Centerville.

BRAUN TO TALK ON RATE BILL

NILES—Harvey Braun, local Southern Pacific Agent, will discuss the Pettengill bill now before Congress at next Monday's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. It was stated at this week's luncheon meeting of the organization. The bill provides that railroads will be allowed to reduce rates sufficiently to compete with water shipping. It is backed by all railroads and railroad organizations.

NILES—Nine lucky residents of Niles who backed Supervisor Geo. Hellwig in the pool conducted at William Cavanaugh's store divided the "pot" and came out with approximately $2 each. MRS. GEORGE FERRY SLIPS AND BREAKS HIP AT HER HOME

NILES—Mrs. George Ferry of Second street slipped on a wet linoleum in her home Tuesday afternoon and suffered a broken right hip. She is at the home of her niece, Mrs. Margaret Cozzi and according to her physician, Dr. E. G. Dawson, is in a favorable condition.

Mrs. Ferry was alone in the house at the time of the accident. Her calls for help were heard by children who ran to the school two doors away and summoned Miss Margaret Breier who has a room at Mrs. Ferry's home. Aid was summoned and the patient taken to the Hayward hospital in the Chapel of the Palms ambulance but was returned to Niles Tuesday night. Mrs. Ferry was preparing to leave for a three-day holiday and had just finished giving her pet dog a bath when she slipped and fell.

KIRK SPEAKS AT FARM CENTER IN DUBLIN

NILES—W. B. Kirk, of the Alameda County horticultural commission, attended a recent meeting of the Livermore-Pleasanton Farm Center at Dublin where he spoke regarding the control of weed pests. Accompanying him was Gordon Lang, county horticulturist.

NILES—A vote of confidence in the board of trustees and the faculty of the Niles Grammar School was expressed by voters of the district in the $100,000 bond election held Tuesday, resulting in a vote of 160 for and 72 against. The total of 232 votes represented about a one-third vote and the 160 affirmatives were six more than the necessary two-thirds necessary for passage.

A meeting of the board of trustees will be held tonight to make plans for engaging an architect. Members of the board are Ben Murphy, Joe Gomes and Harry Tyson. Mr. Murphy expressed pleasure at the vote cast and a sigh of relief that the board had been relieved of the responsibility of housing school children in a building state architects have branded as hazardous.

Principal E. D. Bristow also expressed delight at the result of the election. The bond issue had been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Parent-Teacher Association.

The bonds of $1,000 each will be retired five at a time for 20 years, beginning in 1938. They will necessitate a 30-cent tax for redemption.

Mary Solon, Emma Alves and Annie Dutra were election officials.

The present building consists of six rooms and an auditorium, also an annex of four rooms which houses the first three grades.

Board members plan to have the new building completed this summer.

On May 13, the home of Mrs. Cunha of Irvington was the scene of a big and elaborate card party given on the anniversary of her 75th birthday. It was a surprise and Mrs. Cunha was certainly surprised to see the crowd that gathered in such a short time. Refreshments were served after the hard game and then Mrs. Cunha opened her presents.

Some of the guests were the Cunha family, Leal's, Mr. and Mrs. Azevedo, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cardozo and their son Frank all of Irvington, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Moora, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Perry, Miss Mary Silva, Mrs. Roderiques and son, and Mrs. Bill Lewis of Centerville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mendonca and Bertha Roche of Decoto also attended and Mr. and Mrs. Corrao and family.

PARENTS AREN'T ALWAYS RIGHT

By Kate N. Sladek

"You know how your father feels about that. We won't discuss it further." Or "Mother knows what's best for you. You must trust her judgment".

You have heard that said. Perhaps you have said it yourself. And don't you wish it were true! But it isn't and you and I know that it isn't. How long, then, should we keep up, before our children, this pretense of never being in the wrong? And why do we try to keep it up at all? Are we afraid that we would lose our children's respect if they were to find out that we are often mistaken? But we are often mistaken, and they are bound to discover it sooner or later. It seems to me that the sensible thing to do is simply to break down and confess it.

Did you ever try that? Perhaps you're a fundamentalist in religion and you'd really like to take your children out of a school where they get the idea that other religions are just as good as yours. Perhaps you are a capitalist and are pained and chagrined when your child in school casts a straw vote for Norman Thomas. Or maybe you're a Legionnaire and your boy laughs at the sacredness of the "war to end all wars".

Then try being shock proof, or at least appearing to be shock proof. The attitude, "You may be right. Let's look into it," will take the wind out of the youth's sails if he is merely trying to jar us, and will lead to some very illuminating study if he is sincere.

The next time your teen-age youngster holds out against you don't play the heavy parent. Try saying something like this, "I see that you do not agree with me. But that is not alarming. There is not a single person alive today whose opinions are held as truth by everybody. And there are many intelligent people who would regard me as a nitwit. Certainly the fact that I am a parent doesn't make me infallible".

Would that prove disastrous? Would it cause him to lose faith in you? You know it wouldn't. You know you'd get a great deal of satisfaction from his look of wondering admiration as it began to dawn on him that you could be a very reasonable person.

But his attitude toward you is not so important. The point is do we want our children to think for themselves? Or is it more comfortable for us to see to it that they think our thoughts? That's the way we were raised, most of us. Our parents made our decisions. We were told that this was right and that was wrong, and seldom asked to decide for ourselves what was right for us.

That is the reason our judgment can't be better trusted now. It was never trained. We weren't allowed to exercise it when we were growing up.

And if we decide that we are not satisfied with results in our own case, that we would like our children to be unprejudiced, to think clearly and make their own decisions, then what can we do?

It's really very simple. Since your children train their judgment by using it, then let them use it. It's an early age give them a choice whenever possible, a choice of clothes, of friends, of toys, of how to spend their money. "But they'll choose wrong." Of course! Very often they will. That is the only way they can learn to choose right, by seeing the results of their wrong decisions. Unless there is actual physical or moral danger involved, ask the children, "What do you think you should do?" and let them abide by the consequences.

Let's spend as much time and energy on developing our children's judgment as on their health habits. Then, some day, when they say to their own children, "Mother knows best", it might really be true.

A Twofold Duty

It is not enough that the funeral director give funeral service; his duties call for more. He should be helpful to the grieving in their weakness, a trusted friend who makes the road of sorrow easier to travel. He must serve those who are living as well as those who have passed on. That is the view we take toward our mission.

OLD VINTAGE WINES OF THE COUNTRY

A New Threat

to divert gas tax funds

A NEW BILL is pending in the California Assembly to give the State Highway Department authority to divert gasoline tax maintenance funds from normal highway upkeep to a few big toll bridges.

It is Assembly Bill No. 2124, known as the Dannenbrink Bill.

This bill will make operating costs of toll bridges a legal charge against the gasoline tax maintenance fund.

Aimed at reduction of tolls, it is merely a screen behind which the costs of collecting the tolls and other operating expenses will be paid from gasoline tax funds. Thus the bridges which were built to be self-supporting will be State-subsidized... at the expense of gasoline tax payers instead of bridge users.

Of course the bridge users want lower tolls... but why should millions of dollars be concentrated in operating these few toll bridges at the expense of needed highway improvements?

The Highway Maintenance Fund was originally set aside for use on roads in ALL counties of the State!

Don't let this bill be the first break in diverting this fund

Write or wire immediately to your Representatives at Sacramento in PROTEST against this measure.

SUPPORT HELLWIG

Washington township should be satisfied with the appointment of George Hellwig to the supervisorship.

Following are the reasons for approving the selection: Hellwig hitherto has not been in politics. He can start with a clean slate.

Hellwig is a local man. The supervisorship is being kept west of the hills.

Hellwig is a business man and as such has had long contact with the substantial people of his district.

Hellwig was born and has spent practically his entire life in Washington township.

Hellwig is no straw man. Win or lose, he seems to know his own mind.

Hellwig's appointment did not please either of the big political bosses of Alameda county but that very fact should make him more useful to his district.

This newspaper intends to give him unqualified support while he is in office—to give him a chance to work out his policies without unreasonable criticism.

He will have more than a year to prove himself to his constituents and to build up support if he intends to seek election in 1938.

MANY ATTEND RITES FOR HUGH MOSHER

NILES—Hugh Edward Mosher, one of Washington township's oldest citizens, passed away at the Niles home recently and was given final rites at the Centerville St. James Episcopal church for which he had served as warden for 40 years. He would have been 93 years of age on July 21.

He was the husband of the late Sarah Jane Mosher and the father of Mrs. Sarah Louise Hunt of Niles and Harry A. Mosher, Oakland banker. Before the death of his wife. Two years ago they had celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary.

Pall bearers were Arthur Haley, Eric Bergstrom, Frank T. Dusterberry, Philip Moore, J. C. Shinn and C. E. Martenstein. Services at the Episcopal church conducted by Dr. W. J. Attwood were followed with interment at the Irvington I. O. O. F. cemetery, Pratt mortuary of Hayward officiating.

Mr. Mosher was born in St. John, New Brunswick. He came to California from Boston via the Isthmus of Panama and landed in San Francisco. He resided in Hayward, Livermore, Centerville and Niles and had been in this township more than 60 years. He was a wheelwright by trade and later engaged in ranching. He retired from active business about 40 years ago. Since the death of his wife he has resided at the Niles home. He had been ill for several weeks prior to his death which took place Sunday night about 10:30 o'clock.

GRESHAM HURT IN COLLISION

NILES—D. B. Gresham, 28, proprietor of a Centerville feed store, was treated by Dr. George Holeman of Centerville for bruises and lacerations received in a head-on collision between his car and one driven by Mrs. F. Mosegard of Niles near the steel bridge in Niles Canyon recently. Both cars were badly damaged. The accident was reported to Deputy Sheriff Tom Silva and investigated by Highway Patrolman George Barron.

SOUTH COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED IN ADVERTISING PLAN

NILES — Southern Alameda County men were prominent in the list of those announced as sponsoring the national advertising campaign for "Metropolitan Oakland". William P. S. Sure, vice-president of the Key System, heads the committee and at a meeting this week plans were outlined for use of the name "Metropolitan Oakland" in community advertising. Harvey C. Scott, director of publicity for the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, is secretary of the committee. Harrison S. Robinson of Oakland originated the cooperative plan of advertising.

Robinson stated that cities of the Bay area have realized the value the leadership of Rogers, have trained themselves in the use of the equipment and hold themselves ready to come, without compensation, at any hour of the day or night, when they are needed. Such public spirited service is something for which all of us are grateful. It is certainly a lesson in good citizenship on the part of the Fire Department members.

The group of students who saw Rogers' demonstration were instructed by him to proceed as follows in emergencies where the inhalator is required: Phone the Centerville Fire Department asking for the inhalator and at the same time send for the nearest doctor.

Leading a Hog's Life
Last Saturday we were looking for some feeder pigs near Colma. We asked one hay grower about his feed supply. "Feed is high priced and hard to get now. If it was not for bread I don't know what I would do. Its the best feed I've got", he said. He took us into a feed shed and showed us a large pile containing several tons of bread all neatly wrapped, labeled and sliced. We opened several loaves and found the slices in excellent condition—it seemed to us but little different from that which one buys in the store.

L. E. Shane, a buyer with Washburn and Congdon, at the South San Francisco yards, was with us. This stack of bread reminded him of an exceptionally fine bunch of hogs which he recently bought in this area for his company. He was so struck by the quality and finish of these hogs that he asked the grower how he had fed them to get such fine results. "Since those hogs were weaned", the grower told him, "they haven't had a thing to eat except doughnuts".

Whither are We Drifting
What with increasing labor costs, rising prices for materials, high priced feed and all, it is pretty hard for the farmer to know just where he stands in relation to where he stood a few weeks or months ago. It reminds us of a couple of young fellows who went fishing over at Santa Cruz. They rented a boat, rowed out a ways in the bay and began to fish. The fish bit fine and the fellows were busy pulling them in for a while. Before they had completed their catch one said to the other, "Be sure to mark this place so we can come out here again tomorrow where these fish are and catch a lot". As they were rowing in, this chap asked his partner, "Did you mark that place where the fish were biting so good?" "Sure," his companion replied, "I marked it good and plain in chalk right here on the side of the boat." Both rowed along awhile in a satisfied silence, sure that they had the spot marked for tomorrow's fishing. Then the first fellow said, "Heck! That is not going to do us any good! Maybe somebody else will rent this boat tomorrow!"

of the use of the name "Metropolitan Oakland" in community advertising in giving the entire county a common symbol. "The old term, 'East Bay', is colorless and meaningless," he said.

Among those on the committee are John J. Amaral of Pleasanton, Frank Dusterberry of Centerville, Dr. F. L. Herrick of Livermore, J. Russel Knowland of The Oakland Tribune, Tom W. Norris and Lea Staiger of Livermore, and several from Hayward and San Leandro.
